

SSLR2 WINS 2025 GOING DIGITAL AWARD

Friday, 17 October 2025, Amsterdam - Congratulations to JKR Sarawak and the project team of the Sarawak Sabah Link Road Phase 2 for winning the prestigious 2025 Going Digital Award by Bentley in the Roads and Highways category.

Bentley's Going Digital Awards celebrate the most extraordinary infrastructure projects and achievements of the people behind them in advancing infrastructure through digital innovation for a better quality of life.

JKR Sarawak's Director, Datu Dr Cassidy Morris, received the prestigious 2025 Going Digital Award in Amsterdam on 16 October 2025 after presenting to an independent international panel of judges on how digital innovation is used to transform project delivery and asset performance on the SSLR2 project.

JKR Sarawak beat two other finalists in the Roads and Highways category - Arcadis (Australia) for the Warringah Freeway Upgrade and PowerChina ZhongNan Engineering Corporation Ltd. (China) for the Ecological Highway from Detian Transnational Waterfall to Shuolong Border.

Nearly 250 nominations from 47 countries were submitted for this year's prestigious 2025 Going Digital Awards, organised by renowned Bentley Systems infrastructure engineering software company. Finalists across 12 categories were selected by independent panels of global industry experts.

According to Bentley, infrastructure professionals continue to deliver better, more resilient infrastructure despite many global challenges, from climate change to infrastructure workforce shortages. The Going Digital Awards serve to recognise tangible impact advances in AI, digital twins, and more, towards driving greater productivity and resilience across the infrastructure lifecycle.
